Step-1: Team Gathering, Collaboration and Select the Problem Statement

Brainstorm & Idea prioritization

Use this template in your next brainstorming sessions so your team can unleash their imagination and start shaping concepts even if you're not sitting in the same room.

- 1. 15 minutes to prepare
- 2. 1 hour to collaborate
- 3. 20 people recommended

Before you collaborate

A little bit of preparation goes a long way with this template. Here's what you need to do to get going.

- 1. Team gathering
Invite your team members to the virtual collaboration space. Once everyone is in the room, share the link to the template.
- 2. Set the goal
Share the problem you're brainstorming with the team.
- 3. Define the problem statement
Use the Problem Statement tool to define the problem.

Define your problem statement

Understanding the problem is the first step in the ideation process. It's important to define the problem clearly and concisely. This will help you to focus your ideas and ensure that you are addressing the right problem.

To develop a clear problem statement, it's important to understand the context of the problem. This includes understanding the current situation, the stakeholders involved, and the impact of the problem. Once you have a clear understanding of the problem, you can start to define the problem statement.

The problem statement should be a clear, concise statement of the problem. It should be written in a way that is easy to understand and that clearly defines the problem. It should also be written in a way that is specific and measurable.

Here's an example of a problem statement:

Problem: How can we improve the efficiency of our current process?

Group Ideas

Take turns sharing your ideas with clustering words in related notes on your grid. Check off sticky notes have been grouped and give each cluster a sentence-for-label. If a cluster is bigger than six sticky notes, try and see if you can break it up into smaller sub-groups.

There are many ways to get the most out of your car. One way is to get a car that is easy to maintain. Another way is to get a car that is easy to drive. And a third way is to get a car that is easy to sell. All of these things can help you get the most out of your car. So, when you are looking for a new car, make sure you are looking for a car that is easy to maintain, easy to drive, and easy to sell. This will help you get the most out of your car.

After you collaborate to share with members of your community who are engaged in a struggle.
